MDL Docket No. 06-1791 (VRW)

MCI AND VERIZON CLASS PLAINTIFFS'
OPPOSITION TO VERIZON'S
ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION TO EXCEED PAGE LIMITS

[Civ. L.R. 7-11(b)]

Courtroom: 6, 17th Floor
Judge: Hon. Vaughn R. Walker

1 Verizon seeks leave to file a 95-page brief, nearly four times the 25-page limit set
2 by Local Rule 7-4(b). Verizon states that a mere 15 pages of its brief “will address the state-
3 secrets doctrine, and then only to address points that were not fully developed in the Hepting
4 case.” Motion at 1. Indeed, this is the brief that Verizon should have filed in response to the 5 Court’s November 22, 2006 Pretrial Order No. 1, which required “[a]ll parties to SHOW CAUSE
6 in writing why the Hepting order should not apply to all cases and claims to which the 7 government asserts the state secrets privilege.”

8 Verizon proposes to devote approximately 80 pages of its proposed 95-page brief
9 to the following arguments: (1) that Verizon has a First Amendment right to turn over the 10 telecommunications records of its customers to the federal government in violation of multiple 11 federal statutes; (2) that separation-of-powers principles render these statutes unconstitutional;
12 and (3) that the MCI/Verizon Master Complaint does not allege a “divulgence” of records, and/or 13 that such divulgence was authorized under statutory exceptions for an “emergency” or protecting
14 MCI/Verizon’s “rights or property.” To these arguments, Verizon would append an amorphous
15 discussion — apparently untethered to any legal argument — of “the proper sphere of state
16 authority in national security matters, . . . the scope and application of Title III, the Foreign 17 Intelligence Surveillance Act, and sections 605 and 222 of the Communications Act.” Motion at 18 2.¹

19 MCI/Verizon Plaintiffs respectfully submit that the above-enumerated arguments
20 can be made within the confines of an ordinary, 25-page brief. Accordingly, MCI/Verizon
21 Plaintiffs propose that Verizon be allowed to file a brief of not more than 40 pages (including the 22 estimated fifteen pages devoted to “state secrets” issues). However many pages the Court allows,
23 MCI/Verizon Plaintiffs request an equal amount for their opposition.

26
27 ¹ To this list, Verizon adds “the merits of Plaintiffs’ ‘consumer protection’ claims . . .” Motion 28 at 2. MCI/Verizon Plaintiffs have repeatedly offered to defer briefing on their purely state law claims as unnecessary at this juncture, but Verizon has repeatedly rejected this offer, which remains open.
